Test Case.

"I'm a 'beauty doctor,'" announced the stranger with the hand satchel full of cosmetics and massage machines. "Do you think I could get any practice around here?"

"You make ugly things pretty, don't you?" drawled the old farmer in the speckled shirt.

"That's my business, sir."

"Well, if you'll go down back of my barn you'll find an old slate-colored cow with one eye and one horn and wrinkles like canals all over her face. She's the ugliest cow in seven states and if you can make her pretty I'll agree that you be a 'beauty doctor' and give you a dollar."

Feminine Intuition.

They stood in the purple gloaming of the hazy twilight. Above them drooped the wistaria; from afar drifted the fragrance of the dewy honeysuckles. It was an evening to inspire the heart and to thrill the soul.

"Evangeline," sighed Hector Montgomery, "I cannot begin to tell you how much I love you."

"You"—she hesitated—"you might at least try, mightn't you? If you give me but an inkling perhaps I can guess the rest."

He should have known better than to think of marrying a woman who was such a good guesser.—Judge.

Wary.

"So you heard my speech?" said the orator.

"Yes," answered Farmer Cornstossel. "And you enjoyed it?"

"Very much."

"And you agreed with my opinions?"

"Entirely."

"Then, of course, I can depend on your support."

"No. I've thought it all over, and I've concluded that as slick a talker as you are ain't to be trusted."—Washington Star.

Quite Likely.

"We thought," said the reporter, "you might care to say something about these charges against you."

"No," replied the crooked public official, "I believe that 'silence is golden.'"

"Well," replied the reporter, "perhaps the public might believe it's merely gilt in this case."—Philadelphia Press.

WASHINGTON LETTER

MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST FROM THE CAPITAL

President Roosevelt's course in giving instructions to the District Attorney in the now famous Harper case has been commented upon very freely throughout Washington, especially by lawyers.

By some the President's action is criticized adversely but the opinion seems to prevail, on the whole, that it was a wise move. The District Attorney assured the President that it had been his intention from the first to insist upon a jail sentence for Mr. Harper, as he realized the gravity of the offense and the deleterious effect it would have on the future effective administration of the pure food law and prosecutions thereunder, unless a severe sentence should be imposed. The Department of Agriculture through its expert, Dr. H. W. Wiley, has been bending every effort for some time to make an example of Mr. Harper, and has had the active cooperation of the Department of Justice.

The validity of the so-called Elkin's anti-rebate law was again affirmed by the Supreme Court this week in a decision sustaining the conviction of the Armour, Swift, Morris and Cudahy packing companies for accepting rebates on packing house products and the Burlington Railroad for granting them. Each of the five defendants were fined $15,000. for the offense.

A party of government officials and citizens interested in aeronautics has made an inspection of the drill grounds at Fort Myer as a testing ground for the use of aeroplanes and air-ships. Fort Myer is easy of access by trolley cars and by driving or automobiling over government roads from Washington and it was the opinion of every member of the party that the grounds provide an ideal place for such tests and that with the erection of a shed and other minor improvements one of the most desirable stations in the United States for such practice will have been placed within reach of the government officials in this city, who are studying air navigation.

There met this week in the diplomatic room of the State Department, thirteen men whom Secretary Root has selected as the Pan-American Committee of the United States to execute the suggestions of the Rio conference contained in fourteen resolutions, all calculated to strengthen the bond between the governments of the American continent. The committee perfected its organization and reviewed the work of the accomplishment of which it was appointed. Secretary Root outlined this work in a brief address to the committee.

Congress seems determined to restore "In God We Trust" to our coins in spite of the fact that a great majority of the legislators affirm we could with equal propriety stamp these words upon our bullets as they have no religious significance. They maintain it is only as individuals that we trust in God and that as a government we trust in our might, our men, our ships and guns and our money. The House has passed a bill by an overwhelming majority, for the restoration of the motto, and the Senate will undoubtedly do likewise.

The news of the death of Senator Whyte of Maryland was a great shock to public men and has occasioned deep sorrow in Washington. Senator Whyte was the Nestor of the Upper Branch of Congress having succeeded to this role upon the death of the late Senator, Edmund W. Pettus. Although Senator Whyte was in his eighty-fourth year, his mind was as alert as that of any man in the Senate, and he was unusually active in the performance of his public duties.

The Senate has been playing to crowded houses this week, Senators, Tillman and La Follette being the star performers.

A bill to create a National University at Washington, a proposition originated by George Washington when he was President—was offered in both houses of Congress this week. The measure calls for an initial appropriation of half a million dollars in order to set in motion the creative machinery for the university. The idea is for the creation of the university by the federal government to be a department of the government and it is proposed to have ordinary instruction as well as an scientific inquiry made a feature of the university.

According to the bill the purposes of the university are threefold; first to promote the advance of science, pure and applied, and of the liberal and fine arts by original investigation and research and other such means as may appear suitable to the purpose in view; second, to provide for the higher instruction and training of men and women for posts of importance and responsibility in the public service of states or nation and for the practice of such calling and professions as may require for their worthy pursuits a higher training; third to cooperate with the scientific departments of the government and all other institutions of higher learning.

OUTLOOK FOR FRUIT GOOD

Local Growers Say That Dry Weather Has Kept Back Forward Buds.

The Missouri Valley Horticulture Society held its monthly meeting at the Coates house Saturday afternoon. According to the members of this society, the fruit prospects for this year are exceedingly good. Weather conditions have been such as to almost insure a full heavy crop. The prospects were discussed by the members of the society at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

"Peaches and pears are about ten days early," C. V. Holvinger, a fruit grower of Rosedale said. "They are in the same condition that they were at this time last year but the dry, cool weather that we are now experiencing has held them back and I don't think that there is any doubt whatever that we will have a full crop. The trees are full of blooms, perhaps ten times as great as they were last year, and all are in good condition. Apples and cherries are delayed much more than they were last year and the prospects are accordingly better for an excellent crop. In my opinion the outlook for an excellent crop of fruit is promising."

Mrs. Lula B. Scott can show you the very latest ideas in ladies and children's hats.

A Medal of Gold.

It will be of interest to our readers to learn that the managers of the Jamestown Exposition have awarded a gold medal to the famous Stevens Rifles, Shot-guns and pistols. This is a deserving tribute to the well recognized merit of these sterling firearms.

GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

Mr. Norman R. Coulter a prominent architect in the Delbert Building San Francisco says: "I fully endorse all that has been said of Electric Bitters as a tonic medicine. It is good for everybody. It corrects stomach, liver and kidney disorders in a prompt and efficient manner and builds up the system." Electric Bitters is the best spring medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter; as a blood purifier it is unequalled. 50c at Crump & Kidwell's drug store.

Her Troubles with French.

Marion is six years old, and her parents are so anxious she should speak French correctly and fluently that they employ a governess of that race to be with their daughter all the time. Marion is a little pitcher with big ears, and she picks up slang and worse forms of her native tongue with more readiness than she does the polite language of France. She does not get on very well with her instructors, and a change of tutors is a frequent occurrence in the household. Not long ago a new governess was installed and a visitor asked the child how she liked her new instructor.

"I don't like her at all," replied Marion. "She's altogether too particular about that damned-subjunctive."

Helped to Model Japanese Navy.

Commander William Frederic Hammond died recently in Japan. He began life as a British naval seaman, went out to Japan with the first naval mission from that country and rose to be an officer in the Japanese fleet. He was in no small measure responsible for the early organization of the navy of Japan. He was twice decorated by the mikado for his services. For several years he was the complement organizer of all newly built ships in the service and he trained the first Japanese recruits in naval gunnery. He was the only European who ever held the mikado's commission.

The Light in the East.

One must not confuse youth with crudity. To those who fancy Oklahoma the home of picturesque, careless cowboys; of Indians continually seeking the warpath for amusement; of one-story buildings; of laboring stage coaches always in imminent danger of hold-up by masked desperadoes, there is nothing but disappointment. The cowboy there is a business proposition; the Indian is peaceful; the towns are modern and substantial; and the voice of the railroad is heard in the land. It is, in short, a good, hard-working state.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Going for Good.

"Well," said Mrs. Grumbel, "I heard that piano going to-day, and for once I was really pleased."

"Ah! The piano next door?" said her husband. "Some good music, eh?"

"It was sweetest music to me. I heard the installment dealer's men taking it away."—Philadelphia Press.

Boys' Corn Growing Contest

The Missouri Boy's Corn Growing Contest will be conducted again this year as usual. The Boys' Class consists of those over 10 years of age, and under 18; the Young Men's Class of those over 18 and under 20 years.

Attractive premiums in cash and merchandise will be offered. Young men and boys should get in line for this work. Besides the State Corn Show at Columbia will be held the State Fair at Sedalia, and the National Corn Exposition at Omaha, Nebraska, where, in all thousands of dollars will be won by somebody. Missouri boys should win a share of all this. It costs nothing to join the contest. Simply send your name to S. M. Jordan, Secretary, Missouri Corn Grower's Association, Columbia, Mo., and you will be enrolled as a member and full particulars and instructions will be sent to you.

If you can not get good seed near home, the College of Agriculture is prepared to give small amounts of seeds to those, who enter the contest, but you are advised to use home-grown seed where it is possible.

BEST HEALER IN THE WORLD.

Rev. F. Starbird, of East Raymond, Maine, says: "I have used Bucklen's Arnica Salve for several years, on my old army wound, and other obstinate sores and find it the best healer in the world. I use it too with great success in my veterinary business. Price 25c at Crump & Kidwell's drug store."

Farewell Sermon

Rev. J. E. Kerr will preach his farewell sermon next Sunday evening at seven o'clock, this will close seven years of constant service in this field during which time the Lord has blessed both congregation and pastor. During this time 127 have been received into this church, by confession and by letter. The church has increased very materially along lines of benevolence and the support of the church.
